Daily Model Brief, October 26, 2026

No vendor changed a token price on any model I track since Friday. Moonshot launched Kimi K3.1 Pro at one-third less than Kimi K3 and set an end-of-December retirement for its K2 models, a two-month window that rewards buyers who can switch vendors quickly.

Monday, October 26, 2026 · Prices as of 8:45 AM CT · Covers Friday, October 23 through this morning

Executive Summary

Moonshot launched Kimi K3.1 Pro on Friday afternoon, after Friday's brief went out. `kimi-k3.1-pro` costs $2.00 input, $0.20 cached and $10.00 output per million tokens, one-third less than Kimi K3 ($3.00 / $0.30 / $15.00), which stays on sale at an unchanged price. A faster variant, `kimi-k3.1-pro-highspeed`, runs about 2 to 3 times faster at $4.00 input, $0.20 cached and $20.00 output. Both have a 1M-token context window with flat pricing and no context-length tiers, and Moonshot says the full model weights will be released by November 4.

Moonshot also put its K2 models on a clock. From Saturday, October 31, newly registered accounts can no longer use K2 models (existing accounts keep access), and Moonshot plans to retire all K2 models by the end of December 2026, with no exact date yet. That is about two months' notice, which is why I keep saying buyers should not lock into one vendor.

No token price changed since Friday on any model I track at Anthropic, OpenAI, Google, xAI (Grok), Moonshot, Z.ai, MiniMax, Mistral, Alibaba, Cohere, Meta, TypeSafe, Xiaomi, Tencent, StepFun or Perplexity.

OpenAI confirmed that its April 22 group of legacy snapshots was shut down on October 23, including `gpt-3.5-turbo-0125`, `gpt-4-turbo`, `gpt-4o-2024-05-13`, `o1`, `o1-pro`, `o3-mini`, `o4-mini`, `gpt-4.1-nano` and `gpt-image-1`. OpenAI now marks `gpt-4.1` and `gpt-4.1-mini` as deprecated; their January 14, 2027 shutdown date is unchanged.

Google changed a data default today, not a price. As of October 26, new paid-tier projects using the Generate Content API store requests by default (`store=true`); existing projects keep their current setting. Google also routes `gemini-3.7-flash` requests automatically to `gemini-3.8-flash`, which has the same price ($0.75 input, $3.75 output through December 31).

DeepSeek starts billing Search and Fetch calls made through DeepSeek Harness, Claude Code and Codex at 11:00 AM CT on Saturday, October 31. TypeSafe's `jev-latest` name now points to `jev-1.14.0` instead of 1.13.0, at the same price.

Not confirmed today: Amazon and ByteDance prices, DeepSeek's dollar prices (its yuan prices are unchanged), IBM's model list, and Microsoft, which lists no pay-as-you-go prices. Their last confirmed prices stand. Performance scores in the chart are as of October 16.

What This Means for Customers

- If you use Kimi K3, test `kimi-k3.1-pro`: input and output both cost one-third less. Budget for cache writes. Moonshot bills them separately, and a 1-hour cache write costs twice the 5-minute rate ($4.00 vs $2.00 per million tokens on K3.1 Pro).
- If you run `kimi-k2.6` or `kimi-k2.7-code`, plan the move off K2 before the end of December. Any new Moonshot account you open from October 31 will not be able to use K2.
- If anything still calls OpenAI's legacy snapshots (for example `o4-mini`, `o3-mini`, `gpt-4-turbo` or `gpt-image-1`), those calls stopped working October 23. OpenAI names `gpt-5.6-sol`, `gpt-5.6-terra`, `gpt-5.6-luna` and `gpt-image-2.5-sunburst` or `gpt-image-2.5-flare` as replacements.
- If you still run `gpt-4.1` or `gpt-4.1-mini`, OpenAI now marks them deprecated. Shutdown is January 14, 2027, and the replacement is `gpt-6-luna`.

- If your data policy limits what vendors keep, check new Gemini projects. New paid projects now store Generate Content API requests by default; set `store=false` per request or turn off logging in the project settings.
- If you call `gemini-3.7-flash`, your requests are already served by `gemini-3.8-flash` at the same price. Re-test output quality on the newer model.
- If your agents search the web through DeepSeek Harness, Claude Code or Codex, DeepSeek starts billing those Search and Fetch calls at 11:00 AM CT on Saturday, October 31, at $0.75 per 1,000 successful requests each (last confirmed dollar price). Track this separately from token spend.
- Claude Haiku 4.5 is still active. Anthropic lists its retirement as not sooner than October 15, 2026, a date that has passed, and still sets no date. Keep a tested fallback ready.

New Models and Price Changes

| IBM | `granite-4-h-small` | Last confirmed price. Not confirmed today. | $0.0636 | Not listed | $0.265 |

- No tracked token price changed since Friday's brief. The two Kimi K3.1 Pro models are the only new public prices.

- Kimi K3.1 Pro is priced one-third below Kimi K3 on input, cached input and output.
- Z.ai still marks cached input storage as limited-time free, and Xiaomi still marks cache writes as limited-time free; neither gives an end date.
- Prices from Amazon and ByteDance could not be confirmed today, IBM's model list could not be confirmed, and Microsoft lists no pay-as-you-go prices. Their last confirmed prices stand, unverified today.

Deprecations

| Vendor | Model ID | Shutdown (CT) | Replacement | Note |

- Moonshot's K2 notice is the only new retirement since Friday. Moonshot gives a month, not a day, so treat December 1 as the safe planning date.
- OpenAI's earlier notices are unchanged: gpt-5.3-codex, gpt-5.1 and gpt-5.4-nano shut down April 1, 2027, and the /v1/audio/translations endpoint shuts down February 26, 2027.
- No other shutdown dates moved since Friday at Anthropic, Google or OpenAI.

Price Tracker

Shares of the full tracked population.

- 1,934 models tracked.
- Audited pricing, confirmed against the vendor's own published prices: 13.1% of the full tracked population.
- Unaudited pricing: 5.3%.
- The rest have no public per-token price (47.6%: self-hosted open weights, retired or unpublished) or are duplicate listings of another tracked model (34.0%).

Agent Platforms

Hosted AI agents that come with their own persistent cloud computer.

- Grok Bot (xAI): its own persistent cloud computer; access is included in paid plans and draws from a weekly usage pool. Release v0.75.5 (October 23) adds a Vault for saved logins, cards and contact details, email forwarding from the bot's inbox, fewer approval prompts, and scheduled routines of up to 300 runs an hour. No plan price change.
- dots (OpenAI): not verified today. Last confirmed: a dot "has its own cloud computer," and the first comes with Pro and Business Premium at no extra cost.
- Muse (Meta): "You and your Muse share your own dedicated computer in the cloud." Runs on Muse Spark 1.3, whose API price is unchanged at $1.25 input, $0.15 cached and $4.25 output per million tokens. Billing is unverified today.
- Manus: the Cloud Computer add-on is a persistent server billed separately at $30 a month (2 vCPUs, 4 GB RAM, 70 GB storage) or $50 a month (2 vCPUs, 8 GB RAM, 120 GB storage). No change.
- Genspark Claw: runs "on a dedicated cloud computer provisioned just for you," which requires a Lite, Standard or Powerful Cloud Computer subscription; Genspark publishes no dollar amounts. No price change.

Model Size vs. Price

Among active models with a known parameter count (23.1% of active models), price rises with total size (rank correlation 0.62 on output price). Anthropic, OpenAI, xAI and Google publish no parameter counts, so their models are not plotted. No plotted price changed since Friday. Prices as of October 26, 2026.

Price vs. Performance

Among active models with a performance score (56.4% of active models), price rises with performance only loosely (rank correlation 0.49 on output price). Claude Haiku 5.5 leads at $0.50 or less (43.4). At the frontier, Gemini 4 Argon scores 52.6 and GPT-6.1 Sol 51.8, each at $10 output, while xAI's Grok 4.7 scores 46.5 at $6. Scores as of October 16, 2026; prices as of October 26, 2026.
